City officials knee deep in drainage ills

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis city officials—knee deep in discord over rainwater—ordered another $3 million in drainage improvements Tuesday night.

Acting faster than the mayor recommended, City Council accepted a bid package totaling almost $3 million from Colom Construction Co., for drainage project "C" in the downtown area. The action came after council discussed various alternatives in the bid package, and the several cost overruns already approved for Colom in drainage project "A" in the Spanish Acres area.

Mayor Eddie Favre had asked that the bid matter be delayed a few days, until city officials could graphically illustrate the options' impacts on the drainage project's cost.

Council didn't want to wait. The audience had been particularly vocal Tuesday with drainage complaints over what upgrades are going in, what areas of town have priority, what impact the program will have, and how long the whole process will take. At one point, council member Connie Lampley shouted in disagreement with a woman who suggested the tourist-luring downtown area should take precedence over other sections of town.

Another woman, who regularly attends council meetings to

Outlawed

Bay St. Louis' city council has passed an ordinance outlawing the presence of horses on public beaches and/or streets unless the animal wears a "diaper" to control wastes. Under the ordinance, riders like Tracy Blaize and Mark Murphy would no longer be able to ride the beaches without complying. (Echo staff photo by Betty Ruth Hawkins)

City hopes to reign in controversy over horses

BY MARY G. SEILEY
City officials have agreed to reign in on horseback riding in Bay St. Louis.

In an ordinance passed Tuesday, horses and most other types of livestock will be hooted off the beaches and streets, municipal parks, sidewalks, neutral grounds and other public properties.

Those which will be allowed are animals that will be wearing diaper devices to catch and store excrement while in public places. And the animals must be part of an approved public event, such as a fair, parade or festival, or be "part of and used in connection with a business which is duly licensed in the City."

The new law, effective in 30 days, stopped inches short of outlawing carriage horse companies from operating in the city—a ban that animal rights groups recently urged. Council members made it clear Tuesday, however, they didn't want to go that far, and emphasized for news publication that horse carriage companies will be allowed in the city under the new ordinance.

An original draft of the ordinance which council was given Monday night would not have allowed such operations in town—but it had been amended ed by Tuesday night to open the door to horse carriage activity. City Attorney John Scaife said he made the change in language following "questions about the application" of the initial draft.

Still more livestock legislation is likely in the next few weeks, Scaife also said, dealing with cases where keeping livestock in town creates a "nuisance" to the public. When one citizen asked whether livestock would be forbidden anywhere in residential areas, Scaife replied: "You can't just ban animals in the city."

County asks state agency for $1.2 million in funds

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County is asking the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources for $1.2 million in Tidelands funds next year.

Jeff Loftus, with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, briefed supervisors Monday on the county's application for funding, which was filed before the July 1 deadline.

Loftus said a total of $1 million is being requested for the second phase of Bayou Caddy Marina off Lakeshore at the foot of Pleasure Street. A contractor is currently on site working on the first phase of the marina, which will provide docking for up to 30 or 40 boats, elevated and lighted piers and a boat launch.

In connection with that project, supervisors have asked

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson to provide inmate labor to clear debris from the marina site while construction continues.

Another $100,000 in Tidelands funds is being requested to construct a fishing pier at Clermont Harbor. Loftus said it would probably be located between Clermont Boulevard and the state's Buccaneer Park.

He said it would be smaller than the Garfield Ladner public fishing pier in Waveland, but plans are to charge nominal fees to help pay operational and maintenance costs.

The county is also asking $50,000 to build a boat launch off Hwy. 607 on land donated by Hancock County resident Curtis Johnson on the north side of Interstate 10, just before the entrance to NASA's Stennis Space Center. Another $50,000 is sought to expand the boat launch at Cedar Point in Bay St. Louis.

At Monday's meeting, District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward also revealed that she was awaiting final drawings from Brown and Mitchell architects on replacing the Dunbar Street pier, which was destroyed in last February's storm and high tide.

The original pier extended 325 feet into the Bay of St. Louis, and Coward said she wants the new one to be 400-feet long. She said it will be handicapped accessible and lighted, and the fishing area at the end of the pier would be larger than the original pier, with docking ramps on each side for people to come off or board boats.

Cedar Point development proposal under review

BY MARY G. SEILEY
A July 22 public hearing has been set on an explosively controversial land development proposal in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis.

Jamie Miller, of the state Department of Marine Resources, said Tuesday the hearing is set for 6:30 p.m., at Coast Electric Co., featuring comments from officials of several other agencies involved in the project review process, and the developer.

At issue is a permit for developing almost 26 acres of land into a residential subdivision bounded by Beach Boulevard and Blakeman Avenue, just west of Serpentine Lake. Residents of the area—on Paradise Point, Pine Tree, Cedar Point, and Dogwood roads, as well as Blakemore Street, have urged rejection of the proposal.

Tuesday, opponents presented

Officer's response said appropriate

BY B. R. HAWKINS
Waveland Police Chief James Varnell deemed Patrolman Mike Hearty's response to a June 23 call as appropriate and said that any officer who responded differently was running a risk of becoming a statistic.

Varnell said James Strickland of Bay St. Louis called the Waveland Police Department from a pay phone at the corner of Sears and Waveland avenues at approximately 4:44 p.m., Tuesday June 23. Strickland said that "four people in a van" had threatened to shoot him. Strickland gave a description of the van as well as the tag number.

The van, carrying six campers and two counselors from Gulfside Methodist Assembly were returning to campus from the movies. The counselor driving the van, according to camp director, Mary Proby, turned down Acadian Bay Lane thinking that the cul-de-sac was a through street.

"The kids were coming back up the street when James Strickland, a contractor in the subdivision, stopped the van," Proby said.

"The van was speeding and when I stepped out into the road to stop them," Strickland said, "the driver swerved like he was going to hit me. It made me mad. They shouldn't have been down there driving so fast."

Response — Appropriate

Varnell confirmed that there had been at least two reports prior to this incident from residents in Acadian Bay subdivision, a new development in Waveland that is home to a number of small children, complaining of suspicious vehicles and reckless driving.

Varnell said that when Strickland went to question the driver about his speed, someone in the van told him they were going to shoot him.

"My officer responded knowing only that there was the possibility of there being a weapon," Varnell said.

Proby and parents of campers have voiced complaints that the officer's actions were rough and rude. Proby said that Hearty was familiar with the Gulfside camp and campers since he had conducted programs at the camp and should have known that there would not be a weapon on campus.

"In this day and time an officer cannot afford to respond without being prepared for the worse," Varnell said. "Nobody in Pearl ever expected that shooting to take place. Who would have thought that boy would have done something like that? Hearty separated the younger campers and searched the older ones. His job was to ascertain if there was, indeed, a weapon and make sure no one was in danger. He acted as he had been trained."

Varnell said that he met with Proby the next day, but that reports that Hearty was sent to Gulfside to apologize were incorrect.

"Officer Hearty, who had only been to Gulfside once to conduct a program, was already scheduled to appear at Gulfside, June 24 to work with other officers on a drug prevention program," Varnell said. "Ms. Proby indicated she did not want Hearty to come to the campus. I asked to let the officer come and explain to the campers the reasons behind his actions. She agreed. It was not to apologize."

However, Hearty's attempts to discuss the matter with the campers, according to Varnell, were interrupted by Gulfside executive director Marian Martin who scolded Hearty in front of the campers.

"The only thing my officer could do at that point was to leave," Varnell said. "I can only say that it is regretful that this matter has aroused so many feelings. Patrolman Hearty acted appropriately. I would expect him to respond similarly under the same circumstances."

Supervisors readvertise bids

BY ED LEPOMA

At the request of the architect, Hancock County supervisors have voted to readvertise the contract to build a juvenile detention center and expand the present county jail.

Supervisors had already advertised the project and were set to open bids at a public meeting scheduled for July 10, but at Monday's meeting of the Board, James Polk, the design architect, convinced them to return whatever bids they receive on July 10 without opening them and readvertise the project.

"Several contractors have requested more time to get their prices together," Polk told supervisors. "With the volume of work going on around the Coast right now, it seems contractors are having trouble finding subs to bid their jobs because they are all very busy. The contractors would also like to be able to spend more time shopping around for the best prices," he said.

Polk told supervisors he had personally spoken to five or six general contractors, some of whom are local, and most requested more time.

By extending the bid date, he said he felt the county might receive a bid that is in line with the $1.2 million earmarked for both projects.

Supervisors will readvertise, and open bids at a recess meeting schedule for 2 p.m. August 17.

The county plans to construct a two-story juvenile detention center attached to the rear of the historic Hancock County Courthouse. The center would hold up to 30 juveniles in a double bunk-bed arrangement, and the entire addition would be handicapped accessible.

The bottom floor of the center would house administrative offices for supervisors, public restrooms to replace outdated ones, and an elevator to the second floor lobby. Upstairs, besides the detention areas, there would be new witness rooms and offices for the Circuit Court and the judges' chamber.

The expansion of the jail would be financed with $236,000 on hand in Sheriff Ronnie Peterson's budget. Plans are to enclose that part of the jail which formerly served as the vehicle maintenance area. Cells would be built to handle up to 20 more federal inmates being detained for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Revenue from housing the inmates would be used to offset cost of operating the juvenile detention center.

In other business affecting the courthouse, Chancery

Court Clerk Tim Kellar revealed that the central air conditioning unit is no longer cooling the vault area where property records are kept in the western rear of his office.

He said clerks and people who come into the area are sweltering in the heat, and estimates are it would be at least a year until construction is complete on the juvenile detention center and that part of the courthouse is refurbished as part of the project.

Kellar said he had an air conditioning firm look at the area, and he suggested purchasing two or three two-ton and a half-ton air and heating units during the interim.

In a previous meeting, supervisors gave County Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh approval to buy two units to cool off workers in the mapping section of his office, who have been without air almost two years.

Now supervisors are asking county Purchasing Agent Suzette Necaise to get quotes on purchasing up to five units for the two areas.

County road improvement plan estimated to cost $4.1 million

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County supervisors will open bids in a recess meeting August 10 on a massive plan to improve most county roads.

County Engineer Larry Seal came to Monday's meeting with the specifications needed to let out the giant undertaking. He estimates the work called for will come in at around $4.1 million, but was optimistic some bids on certain projects will be lower than estimates.

"If that happens, we might be able to do more," Seal told the Echo.

Supervisors floated a $5 million bond issue for the road work, but seven percent of that goes to engineering fees.

In all, Seal said the county will improve 125 miles of roads in areas scattered throughout mostly rural portions of Hancock County.

"Some will be chip sealed, others will require overlay and others will require asphalt surfacing," said Seal.

He said Longfellow Road, from its beginning near the end of the Bay St. Louis corporate limits, past the civic center and the Human Resources Center to its junction with Hwy. 603, will be overlaid.

Lower Bay Road is not covered under the contracts to be let, Seal said. "It is a state road and will be repaired with state-aid funds," said Seal. He said plans for that road are in final design stages and only one easement was left to be obtained.

In other business Monday, supervisors scheduled a workshop for 3 p.m. July 14 with County Comptroller Patty Greer to discuss next year's budget requests.

The motion came after Greer reported some county departments were running over this year's budget, but the overall county budget was still in line with estimates.

"We're still on target," said Greer, estimated county spending was now around 70 percent with a little less than three months to go.

The Sheriff's Department operations led the overspending, according to Greer.

She said the Sheriff's Department has overspent by $108,000 or seven percent over budget estimates; spending at the county jail was over estimates by $170,000 or 11 percent; and operations at the inmate farm were running $1,260 or 12 percent over estimates.

Greer said she expected some of the overspending will be offset by anticipated grants and revenues the sheriff receives for housing state and federal inmates.

The Buildings and Grounds Department is overspending by $27,000 or six percent over budget, Greer said, while much of that was for equipment at the new County Courthouse Annex and improvements to the Civic Center.

The cost of providing medical care and temporary counseling and shelter for the county's indigent mentally ill was also running $23,700 or 16 percent over budget estimates, Greer said.

In other business, supervisors took under advisement a request by County Tax Collector Eddie Murtagh to allow his staff to wear uniforms.

He said revenues from maps sold to the public might be used to pay the estimated costs. Murtagh said those sales brought in about $1,000 last year.

Supervisors also voted 4 to 1 on a request by District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward to lobby the Pearl River Development Basin and the Congressional delegation to speed up plans to divert the east Pearl to get more water downstream.

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman voted against, saying he didn't know what impact the dredging would have downstream.

Bay St. Louis fire chief reports no call for fireworks

Bay St. Louis firefighters had a quiet Fourth of July weekend, holding their own backyard barbecue. There were five emergency medical calls over the three-day weekend, two calls for suspected gas leaks and two public assistance calls responded to by the department. There were no calls for fireworks injuries or fire calls, according to reports.

"Our success was secured by the cooperation of Bay St. Louis residents and visitors who worked with us to protect the city. They were responsible in handling fireworks and managing beach bonfires. The Department set reasonable rules, and there were no problems. Thank you, Bay St. Louis," said Fire Chief Robert Gavnage.

With the extremely high temperatures and the lack of any significant amount of rain, the Chief had considered a stop order on bonfires; instead extra protection rules were instituted. Each bonfire site was inspected by the department to be certain that the area was cleaned and that no smoldering embers were left that could have created problems for the city and its citizens.

"We wanted everyone to have a happy but safe holiday, and everyone did," concluded the Chief.

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Clarice Hively of Bay St. Louis recently received a big surprise to see the photo of a sweater she had knitted earlier this year on the front page of the July issue of Guideposts.

The sweater deal came about because of an article appearing in an earlier issue of Guideposts requesting sweaters to be sent to Third World Countries and even the U.S. for use by deserving children.

Hively along with 14,000 other folks had requested copies of the pattern of the type of sweaters they wanted to distribute.

Upon receiving the pattern, she proceeded to make three sweaters, one of which was red and white with a striped pattern, and she added a bit of extras in the stripes, so she could recognize it as one she had knitted.

Was she surprised when she received this month's copy of Guideposts, which by the way, is a non-denominational magazine begun by the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale some 30 years ago or so.

The sweaters can be either knitted or crocheted, and the pattern was originally distributed by Oxfam, founded as the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief of England.

The Guideposts Sweater Project has already provided hundreds of sweaters throughout the world and many even in the U.S., such as Florida, Harlem, Native American reservations and homeless children's homes.

Hively reports the need is endless, and she and many of her friends continue to make sweaters for the project.

Persons interested in further information can receive a free pattern by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Guideposts Sweater Project, 16 East 34 Street, New York, NY 10016.

It is surprising at how time goes by for us in today's very active world.

On Tuesday morning I attended the installation of the officers of the Diamondhead Rotary Club. It seems just yesterday the club was formed. This installation begins the club's 10th year to have a charter.

Some 10 years ago, David Treutel Jr. and I were given the task to help form a Diamondhead Rotary Club by the District Governor.

Dave and I, along with several others, spent about 15 months getting together everything necessary to form such a club.

Dr. James Bills is the 1998-99 president, with Paul Guichet, vice-president; James Williams, secretary; Kris Ziefe, treasurer; and Eddie Fernandez, past president. Jim Williams is one of the charter members of the Diamondhead Rotary, as he transferred from Bay St. Louis when the new club was organized.

The newest member of the Diamondhead Rotary is Anna DeMarco, Hancock Medical Center's Occupational Network coordinator. She was accepted as a member July 7.

Anna is a graduate of Our Lady Academy and Ole Miss and a longtime resident of Diamondhead, so she is probably more native than any other member of the club.

It was good to visit with my friends at the Diamondhead Rotary. It always brings back good memories. The Diamondhead Rotary is now a morning club meeting 7:45 a.m. on Tuesday's at Jackie O's Cafe in the Diamondhead business district.

Traffic stalled a bit Monday with several sections of lanes on Highway 90 being closed in the Bay-Waveland, Bay bridge and Henderson Point areas.

It seems the day after the long July Fourth weekend was not a good day for highway work to be done.

We sure had large numbers of visitors for the long weekend in our area.

The highway seemed to be filled with vehicles traveling both east and west every time I tried to travel somewhere.

Hopefully everyone arrived safe and sound at their destinations.

While on the subject of highway work, I am wondering how many of you have noted the "maze" created at the intersection of Ulman and Carroll avenues, Genin Street, service roads and Highway 90.

Since I reside on Genin Street, there is no way for me to avoid the intersection, and one almost has to be a "Philadelphia Lawyer" to figure the "maze" out.

I know it must be a quick headache for truckers, as the road is so narrow, an auto has trouble traversing the area.

I know several residents of Genin Street have expressed to me their concerns about the new exit.

Block party, children's art, music, woodcarving leads Second Saturday

Mark your calendar for July 11, the Fourth Second Saturday of the 1998 season in the Old Town district of historic Bay St. Louis. Over 40 unique galleries, shops, and restaurants will stay open late to accommodate strolling shoppers and visitors.

Galleries will feature artists' receptions and openings, while each restaurant will offer Second Saturday specials, highlighting their famous local cuisine.

The first and second blocks of Main Street will be closed to traffic for this lively Old Town block party. "Hot Spots" will feature different locations and special events which generally begin in the mid to late afternoon. This month's Hot Spots include:

Clay Creations, 215 Main Street, will celebrate its third anniversary this month with activities for children and adults. Everyone is invited to tour the studio of artist and owner Jenise McCardell, where she makes charming replicas of Creole and Mississippi architecture in clay.

Children can help create a 20-foot mural on the wall outside of her studio. Merchants of the second block of Main Street will sponsor live music by the Bobby Ryan Band 7-9 p.m.

Artist Betty Barnhill will demonstrate figurine wood carving techniques at one of the newest shops in Old Town, Creations Great and Small, 100 N. Beach Blvd.

Barnhill hand carves wooden replicas of animals and western boots without the use of power tools in the creation of her unique jewelry and figurine designs.

This unique shop, in One Magnolia Place, is centrally located at the corner of Beach Boulevard and Main Street and features the work of Barnhill and other artifacts created by local artists and artisans. Demonstrations will begin at 4 p.m. and run until 6 p.m.

Peoples Bank will sponsor the Jim Smith Band from New Orleans, regularly featured at Margaritaville in the Quarter, at the head of Main Street in front of Carole's Old Town Restaurant. Music continues from 6-9 p.m.

Peoples Bank joins in the spirit of Old Town by providing corporate sponsorship of entertainment for Second Saturday through the month of September.

For information about Second Saturday and the Hot Places, contact any of the galleries listed, Ellis Anderson at 228-467-7279, or Vicki Niolet at 228-467-8318.

Wastewater district petitions to become water, sewer district

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County's Wastewater District I has filed a petition to become a water and sewer district. And, the agency told supervisors Monday it holds the rights to sewer and area of Bay-side Park off Hwy. 603, which the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District wants to annex.

The news came to light when District Chairman Bill Johnson came before supervisors to brief them on the status of several projects designed to extend the county's sewerage collection system to more homes in Shoreline Park, Clermont Harbor and other rural sections of the county.

Johnson said the District plans to let bids out in August for a project that will add approximately 550 more residents of Shoreline Park to the sewerage system. He said the District wants to extend water to customers and also provide fire plugs in the subdivision. Cost of the project is $2.1 million, and funds are already in hand, he said.

The District also hopes to let a contract in late August or early September to provide sewerage connections to approximately 360 residents in the Clermont Harbor area, and the $2.1 million project is being financed with a state revolving loan. The general area will include Clermont Avenue from the beach to the railroad tracks, with the addition of two streets directly across the track, Johnson said.

Johnson said the District is also finalizing plans to acquire a six-inch sewer line from Island Utilities, and has acquired the rights to the Waveland line, which would connect another 30 homes in the Lakeshore area to sewerage.

He revealed that the facilities plans and funding applications are already prepared for even more ambitious projects, and he gave a glimpse of the work ahead.

•The District is working with Hancock Bank to acquire a loan of approximately $120,000 that would extend sewerage and water to commercial areas facing Highway 90 and residences along Longfellow Road.

•And Sam's RV Park on the west side of Hwy. 603 has offered to pay a portion of the $20,000 cost to bore under the highway to provide sewer service to his park, Johnson said.

•With approval to become a water and sewerage district, the agency would be eligible for more federal and state matching grants, Johnson said.

Johnson then turned the briefing over to Commissioner Herman Johnson, who told supervisors the District should be the agency that extends water and sewerage to all area of Bayside Park from Hwy. 90 to Bayou LaCroix and the growing Hwy. 603 corridor.

He had in hand a letter from the state Department of Environmental Quality which said that although that agency would allow the plans for the Blue Lake subdivision to use an already permitted, but never built, wastewater treatment plant temporarily, that area would have to abandon the system once the District's system is extended to the area.

A developer who owns an 1,800-acre tract of land bisected by Interstate 10 on the west side of Hwy. 603 has offered to put up $1 million of the $3 million estimated cost to sewer the area, but Johnson said it was a waste of money and would commit the county to $2 million if any kind of loan was landed to finance the project.

"If Kiln or anybody wants sewerage, we want to help them," said Johnson. "But, I think we should be the agency that does it."

He estimated once the sewerage lines reach that area, service could be provided to the proposed subdivision for around $150,000.

In efforts to resolve the turf battle, supervisors have scheduled a workshop at 2 p.m. on July 14, and will invite representatives of the Kiln Water and Fire District and Bayside Park to attend.

Hearing — Cedar Point

Tuesday, opponents presented Bay St. Louis City Council with a copy of their arguments against the development, and said impacted residents have been holding meetings to rally their opposition.

Council member Carleen Moran, who represents the area in question, said she's written state officials a letter opposing the proposal.

Miller said in an interview earlier that DMR has received "a lot of adverse comments" during the written public comment period that ended July 6, and still is gathering data on the proposal.

DMR staff recommendations could go to the commission for action as soon as August, he said, but it probably won't be taken up before September. Meetings with the developer to address DMR concerns are still in progress, he said.

At issue is a permit application filed by Ivan C. Mandich, on behalf of Kenneth G. Haik, to build a 2,840-foot bulkhead and fill wetlands to develop a 25.85-acre parcel into a residential subdivision. The project would consist of filling 8.7 acres of wetlands with some 135,000 cubic yards of sandy material.

The applicant says some 5.4 acres of high quality marsh would be preserved inside a conservation easement, under a mitigation plan that includes buying credits in an approved mitigation bank.

Neighbors of the potential project, however, are fighting the project on several grounds, and asking that a full Environmental Impact Statement be compiled before a decision is made by state officials.

Most of the property was used in 1969 and 1870 as a dumping ground for waste from Hurricane Camille, opponents say. What had been an open lake was raised from zero elevation to elevations ranging from 4.6 feet to 8.7 feet, according to Millie Ling of Pinetree Street.

"In those days, environmental awareness was not as acute as it is now and it is likely that hazardous waste (herbicides, insecticides, asbestos, commercial and household cleaning chemicals, explosives, a medical waste, etc.) was knowingly or inadvertently contained in the fill," she said in a community letter to DMR.

She asks that a hazardous waste assessment be conducted on the property and that "prospective buyers of these lots be notified of the area's uses as a landfill."

She also said the Camille-related dumping may be one factor in the recent determination that the Bay of St. Louis is the second-most polluted body of water in the state, and stands as a potential danger to residents who would live atop the former landfill.

Miller, however, said Tuesday that only a small portion of the property at issue was used as a landfill after the hurricane.

Opponents, meanwhile, also are pointing to existing drainage and flood problems in the area, saying further runoff waters that would result from massive development would worsen the problem.

And, the opponents are citing the potential for loss of wildlife in the area. "The DMR knows the risks of development resulting from economic growth; contamination of water bodies, flooding and inadequate sanitary sewage all reduce the wildlife," Ling said in her letter.

She said the area in question is home to numerous mammals, reptiles, invertebrates and a wide variety of bird species. "The mere presence of human inhabitants, and the loss of present wildlife habitat will diminish the number of individuals and species, some of which may be endangered," she said.

Ling also pointed to some large oak trees on one of the approaches to the proposed development. And she said the project would have a "domino" effect by encouraging other wetlands destruction in the urban area.

One speaker at Tuesday's council meeting said lots in the proposed development area already are being marketed for sale.

Council took no action Tuesday on the matter.

The city recently imposed a moratorium on development of any kind in the Cedar Point area, pending passage of a comprehensive plan which is required before zoning can be imposed.

The area at issue was annexed in some eight years ago, but hasn't been zoned because the city has failed to pass such a plan.

Meanwhile, the city is seeking Tidlands Trust Funds from DMR to create a "Nature Center" just to the east of the proposed development site. That proposal lauds the "well-preserved" marshland in the area, and sets conservation as the primary goal for the Nature Center site.

School board adopts budget

BY B. R. HAWKINS

Hancock County School Board adopted a $49,435,270 total operating budget for fiscal year 1999 at its regularly scheduled monthly meeting, Monday July 6.

The proposed budget is $7,538,087 over last year's budget of $41,897,182 and represents a 17.99 percent increase.

District Superintendent Terry Randolph said the greatest increase in spending will come from an additional $14.5 million budgeted for construction and approximately a 44 percent increase in debt services over last year.

Recently, the board accepted a bid from G.M. & R. Construction Company of Waveland for construction of the new middle school to be located on the Kiln-Delisle Road and work at the high school. G.M. & R. successfully bid of $10,502,540 includes construction of the building and parking areas and other improvements or additions to the middle school and high school.

In other matters, the board voted to approve faculty and administrator raises as mandated by the state.

PRCC offers classes for federal program

Today's consumer demands more and more from restaurants they patronize — top-rate efficient service, well-prepared menu offerings, and a clean, attractive dining atmosphere.

The recent federally-mandated ServSafe program for all food-oriented businesses will complement any food service business' efforts to provide its customers these benefits.

Pearl River Community College is doing its part in providing a ServSafe training program for food service personnel through PRCC's Workforce Development Center at the Forrest County Center in Hattiesburg.

The mandate stipulates that as of Wednesday, July 1, all food service businesses opened after that date must have at least one employee certified in ServSafe. The mandate will encompass all food service business in the nation as of Jan. 1, 1999.

Edwin Felsher, director of the Workforce Development Center, says PRCC is "a major player in the ServSafe training program."

"Supporting ServSafe training is an opportunity for the Workforce Development Center to train a very important segment of the workforce in the PRCC six-county supporting district," Felsher said. "The food service industry represents a vital and growing element of our area's economy, employing thousands of people and serving thousands more."

PRCC has two ServSafe instructors in Bill Sherrer of Petal, who doubles as an industrial trainer at the Forrest County Center, and James McDonald of Hattiesburg, who also works as a computer instructor at the center. Sherrer and McDonald completed an intensive two-day ServSafe instructor certification program June 9-10 at Northeast Mississippi Community College in Booneville.

"ServSafe is a program designed for the protection of the consumer and the business," said Sherrer. "The program's goal is prevention... prevent problems before they become problems. It encompasses the entire flow of food from its receipt to its serving to the customer. Come the first of the year, all food oriented business licensed by the Mississippi State Health Department will be required to be in compliance."

Felsher says PRCC's new program proves the college meets the needs of the community.

"The continued growth and prosperity of the food service industry is dependent upon the availability of food service workers trained in the skills that ensure food is prepared and served in a safe and sanitary environment," Felsher added.

"ServSafe is another good example of Pearl River meeting the needs of the community by providing intensive training in the area of food service." The National Restaurant Association, along with the Mississippi Restaurant Association, have long urged their members to voluntarily take the training even before the program was federally mandated.

Beth Taylor of Hattiesburg, south regional director of the Mississippi Restaurant Association, says ServSafe is only the beginning of even greater thanks for the food service industry and the consumer.

"We (association) are the biggest supporter of the program,"

Taylor said. "It promotes health and safety and even through ServSafe won't totally eliminate problems 100 percent, the chances of problem occurring will be dramatically lowered."

"We're glad to say that the National Restaurant Association is cleaning up its own backyard," she said.

Taylor said all restaurants in Mississippi should be in compliance in the next 2-3 years. Students must score at least 75 in the class in order to receive certification, while instructors' certification requires a score of at least 90.

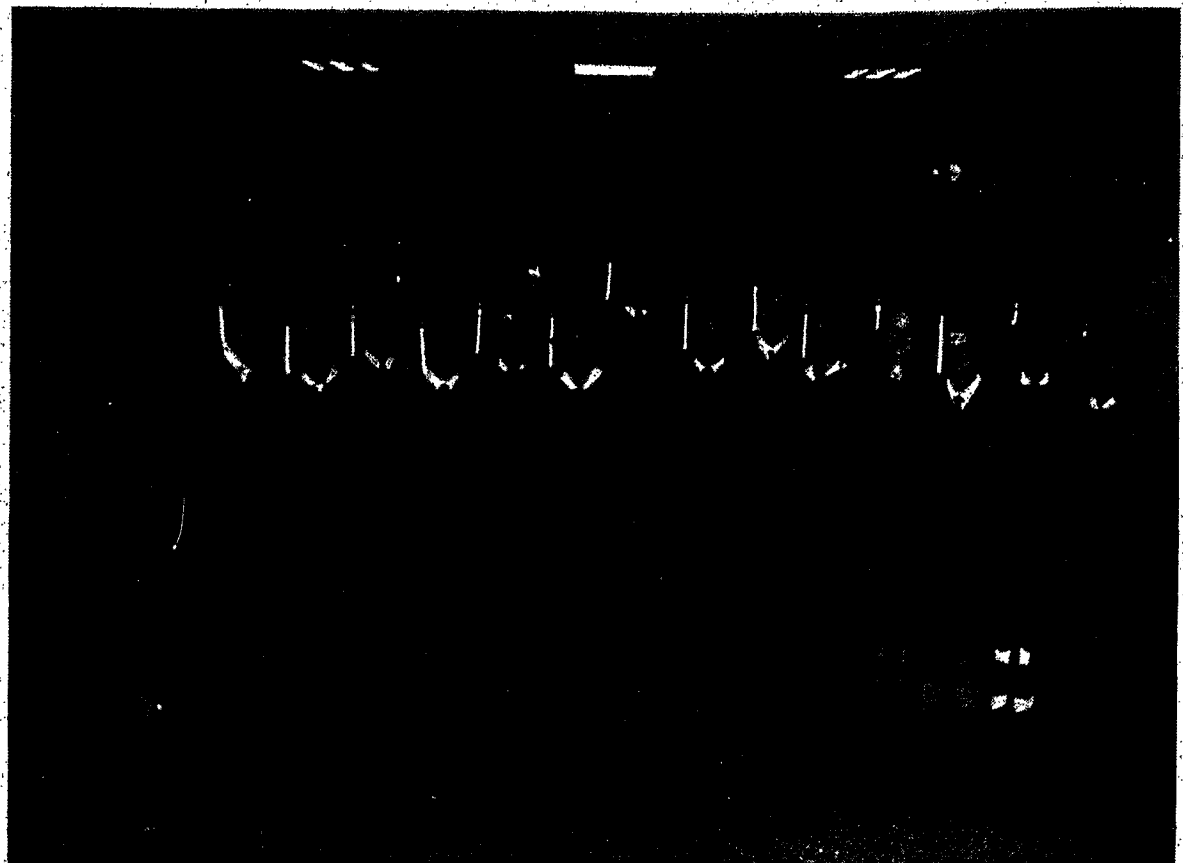

"Bacteria and microorganisms are naturally found in food," said Sherrer. "That is why it is so vital to implement these safety standards. Our students learn how to handle food from its arrival at the business to the waiter serving the customer. They learn how to date foods — particularly meats — rotate stock and even learn the proper way for waiters to handle, deliver and pick up food."

Pearl River's inaugural class began its two-day training Tuesday with 17 students. Taylor said there are an estimated 16,000 food service employees in Mississippi that will be certified over the coming months.

The training course curriculum covers the principles of food microbiology, important food borne diseases, standards that are enforced by regulatory agencies, and applied measures for the prevention of food borne diseases and other microbiological problems.

Similar training classes will be held in Columbia, Picayune and Bay St. Louis.

Library literacy graduates

Open house for expectant moms

The Women's Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center has "Open House for Expectant Moms."

Tours of the Women's Center will be conducted by professional obstetrical nurses who will answer questions regarding delivery. You may view labor/delivery/recovery rooms and the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

There will be details about educational classes to attend before and after your baby arrives. You will also be provided with preregistration information. Fitness concerns can be addressed by exercise professionals who will give you some interesting facts about Pregnancy (TM) and conduct tours of the Health Center upon request.

There will be gifts, refreshments and a chance to win a bundle of gifts.

Even if you are not going to have your baby at NorthShore Regional, you are invited to attend this worthwhile program.

NorthShore Regional will be hosting an Open House for Expectant Moms July 16, 6-8 p.m. RSVP required. Call 1-800-723-8723 for information.

Weather benefits season

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications
Weather that had most other farmers praying for rain has had a positive effect on Mississippi's shrimp harvest.

"We've had good growing conditions Gulfwide," said Dave Burrage, marine resources specialist with Mississippi State University's Extension Service. "Two months of dry weather have resulted in increased salinity and temperatures — the higher, the better."

"Biloxi, which accounts for 80 percent of the state's processing capabilities, handled more than 1.5 million pounds of heads-on shrimp from June 4-24, compared to just over 1.3 million pounds during that period in 1997. The months of May doubled the previous May's harvest."

Burrage said on an average year, the Gulf of Mexico produces about 130 million pounds of heads-off shrimp, which is nearly 85 percent of the total domestic production. The total U.S. production accounts for only 30 percent of the nation's consumption.

"Production is up worldwide, and an increasing percentage of that is farm raised," Burrage said. "Ecuador and Thailand are the main countries producing farm-raised shrimp."

A shortage of larger shrimp has helped those prices, but smaller shrimp are not bringing great prices at the dock. Burrage said as the season continues, shrimpers will be able to harvest a greater percentage of large shrimp.

Average factory prices at the dock are $1.40 per pound for 40-count size (medium) shrimp, but consumers can expect to pay nearly $5 for those size headless shrimp at the grocery. Prices for medium shrimp were better last year because of the scarcity of shrimp early in the season.

In 1997, cooler water temperatures, lower food supplies and low salinity were among the factors that caused basically two shrimp seasons. Shrimpers eventually harvested an average crop of 7.7 million pounds of shrimp (headless) from Mississippi waters.

Mississippi has sold about 1,200 licenses for shrimpers this year. While there has been an overall reduction of the Gulf fleet, the Mississippi fleet has held steady despite the loss of support industries along the Coast. Consumer demand in the last decade has improved.

A percentage of the Mississippi fleet works Gulfwide and will be moving on to Texas waters by the middle of July.

Program picks projects for study

The Commercial Remote Sensing Program Office at NASA's Stennis Space Center has selected 14 projects that could lead to new commercial applications of advanced aircraft or satellite mounted synthetic aperture radar technologies.

The projects are being developed through the Earth Observations Commercial Applications Program — Synthetic Aperture Radar (EOCAP-SAR). The program is designed to increase the use of NASA technology for gathering and analyzing information about the Earth through sensors mounted on aircraft or satellites.

EOCAP-SAR is sponsored by NASA's Office of Earth Sciences in Washington, D.C., and is managed by the commercial Remote Sensing Program Office at Stennis. Its role in commercial activities is to provide financial and technical support to companies for three years in areas of remote sensing activities where there is substantial market risk in matching science and technology with commercial demand.

The projects support technical, market and business innovation to develop new products or services that serve emerging domestic and international markets. Selected proposals, in addition to high technical competence, typically exhibit the following traits: strong business and marketing plans; product advisory boards to guide the product and/or service development; and substantial financial commitments to the projects by the companies.

The recipients of the 1998 EOCAP-SAR project awards are:

- Earth Information Systems Corporation — Austin, Texas
- Vexcel Corporation — Boulder, Colo.
- Ocean Imaging — Solana Beach, Calif.
- Information, Integration & Imaging, LLC — Fort Collins, Colo.
- Eastman Kodak Company — Commercial and Government — Rochester, N.Y.
- Environmental Financial Products Limited — Chicago, Ill.
- Shell Exploration and Production Technology Company — Houston, Texas
- North West Research Associates Inc. — Bellevue, Wash.
- Research and Development Laboratories — Culver City, Calif.
- Envisense Corporation — Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Technology Service Corporation — Los Angeles, Calif.
- Boeing Information, Space and Defense Systems — Seattle, Wash.
- ERM International — Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Orbital Sciences Corporation — Space Systems Group — McLean, Va.

For information, call Bruce Davis with the Commercial Remote Sensing Program Office at Stennis Space Center at (228) 688-2042.

State funds sought in effort to solve garbage problem

BY ED LEPOMA

With Hancock and Harrison counties in serious search for landfill sites, the Gulf Regional Planning Commission is seeking state funds for coastwide planning to attack the growing garbage problem.

At the supervisors' meeting Monday, Jeff Loftus filed a letter written by GRPC Executive Director Ned Boudreaux seeking a portion of $50,000 in funds he said will be needed to fund a "comprehensive long-range solid waste management program for the Mississippi Coastal region."

Boudreaux fired off the letter May 1 to Jimmy Palmer, chief of the state Department of Environmental Quality, which might have funds available for the study.

Boudreaux said the last time a comprehensive planning effort was undertaken by GRPC in 1976, it led to innovative programs and practices that are still functional today.

"The planning effort ushered in programs such as the end of county/city-run garbage collection and disposal in favor of services provided by private sector waste firms; creation of multi-jurisdictional solid waste authorities; the waste incinerator/steam co-generation plant in Jackson County; and the beginning of community recycling, waste reduction, hazardous waste collection and other activities which represented significant improvements over previous practices," Boudreaux wrote.

However, he pointed out, "The evolution of our waste handling programs has not continued." He said the coastal counties "desperately need to develop a solid waste management plan which will optimally accommodate the area's solid waste collection and disposal needs as we move into the 21st Century."

Boudreaux suggested the coastal communities form a partnership with DEQ and other state and federal agencies "to prepare the next generation of solid waste handling plans and strategies."

Horses — Restricted

Mary Hoffman, who represents the organization In Defense of Animals, had urged council members last month to outlaw carriage businesses in the city. Hoffman was not at the council meeting Tuesday — ironically, she was in Panama City, Fla., urging officials there to outlaw carriages in their city. She won in Florida, but was stunned and disappointed to learn that Bay St. Louis decided to allow such operations here.

Hoffman said at the very least, Bay St. Louis should enact very stringent regulations to protect the animals used to pull carriages filled with passengers.

Those regulations should forbid allowing the businesses to operate during extremely high temperatures, require rubber shoes for the horses, regulate the hours of operation and require rest breaks for the animals, she said.

The focus on large animals' presence in town sprang up in April, when citizens complained that a new horse stable had been put into operation too close to their residences on Union Street.

Acting under an existing ordinance, city officials said that complaint left them with no choice legally but to require that the stable be shutdown. Its owner, Ray Murphy, promptly sued the city, challenging the constitutionality of the city law.

While that case continues in Chancery Court, still more complaints have been aired to city leaders about horses being allowed, diaper less, on the streets and beaches. One official said some horses were ridden to the front of City Hall annex recently, and were stopped by their riders to gaze into the building.

Murphy's case deals with a stable at 300 Union Street, which, he said, was licensed by the city in November 1977. His idea of operating a carriage company and riding academy had been endorsed by some city officials and members of the Chamber of Commerce, he said.

He was granted a temporary restraining order to stop the city from closing his operation.

A key issue in his case concerns the city's existing livestock provisions which rely heavily on citizen complaint. Murphy contends that animal owners are not given due process of law, because a correctly filed complaint automatically requires the city to order removal of the animals in such conditions, without a hearing for the owner.

Scaife told council he's studying possible amendments to the existing ordinance that would provide such a hearing, giving owners a chance to provide evidence and leaving the final determination to City Council.

The ordinance enacted Tuesday night applies to "livestock and large animals, including, but not by way of limitation, horses, cattle, sheep, goats, oxen and mules..." on public properties.

Drainage — Problems rising

monitor drainage matters, voiced disgust that the city is proceeding with project "C" before project "B," which covers her troubled section of Washington Street.

About a year ago, the city approved a $5.5 million general obligation bond to pay for a massive, three-part drainage upgrade program. Almost immediately after that, however, officials ran into unexpected difficulties in getting rights-of-way for the initial project, and other stumbling blocks.

Engineer James Chiniche, under questioning from council members, agreed with the options that council picked Tuesday for the second phase, and the contract was accepted without delay.

Colom submitted a total bid of $3,074,416 for project "C," the lowest of four bids received by the city. Still, the low bid was some 20 percent higher than Chiniche's estimate. To lower the cost some, council agreed to strike a $118,000 alternative for work on de Montluzin Street.

And Favre said the city could save even more than that if county officials can be persuaded to do about $200,000 worth of repaving work after new drainage lines are added in the Necaise and Main street area. If the county won't put that work in its major paving package, Favre said the city would have to add it to its own paving program.

Favre said the successful bidder put a price of $100 per ton on asphalt. The city buys it for about $30 a ton.

Another financial shift the mayor forecast concerned how to pay for some $500,000 worth of utility line replacements involved in the project. Favre said the city probably should pay for that work from its $5 million utility upgrade revenue bond issue.

He had said Monday he will present a budget amendment soon to cover overruns that already have piled up the cost of the first phase of the project.

The mayor gave this recap of the project's costs to date. The original bid the city accepted for project "A" was $1,071,000, lower than the $1.2 million estimate by Chiniche. Change orders have the project now at a cost of $1,241,000, said Favre, adding that there will be a few more changes to mount the project up to $1.3 million.

Project "A" is 75 to 85 percent complete, Chiniche said.

The engineer himself spent about an hour fielding questions from the audience while council and the mayor listened.

Even with the highly detailed explanation, however, the audience wasn't much happier.

Some Carroll Avenue residents said they don't believe there's anything in the city's plans that will alleviate serious flooding behind their homes. Two women complained about having to completely re-carpet their residences repeatedly due to flooding.

And as the engineer's explanations continued, a brand new concern boiled up from the audience — where does the drainage plan take the water ultimately?

Chiniche detailed plans to have two new 66-inch pipes running under Highway 90 carry massive amounts of storm waters to an outfall near the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. He conceded, however, that during high tides, the runoff will have to wait before flowing into the Bay.

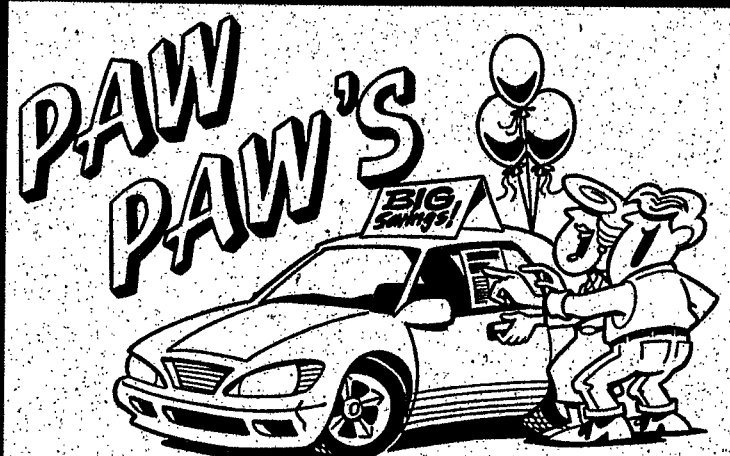

"It's dandy that you're draining all of this water into my area," said Franya Etheridge, "but what's that going to do to everybody on Felicite Street?" Etheridge said council effectively is taking the drainage problem of one area and shifting it to another.

While drainage dominated the night's business, council also discussed a proliferation of street vendors and how they should be regulated. Favre said he would have the city attorney review the matter.

He also distributed an International Property Maintenance Code for council members to study, hoping to improve the way the city deals with overgrown and deteriorated properties.

Europa board faces proxy battle

BY ED LEPOMA

Just days before its annual shareholders' meeting, a group of dissidents has launched a proxy contest in another effort to oust Europa Cruises Corporation's Board of Directors.

Europa's annual meeting is scheduled to begin Friday at the Grand Casino in Biloxi, but before the gathering, Europa's president and chairman of the board, Deborah A. Vitale, sent out letters to stockholders asking them to turn back the challengers.

Europa is seeking a venturing partner to build a gambling/casino resort off the South Diamondhead exit of Interstate 10, and Vitale said, "handing over control of your company to this group would be catastrophic."

She said McDonald & Company, Europa's financial advisor retained to assist the firm with the Diamondhead project, "will exercise their right to terminate their relationship with Europa if current management is replaced."

"We urge you to soundly reject this dissident group and yet another untimely attempt to seize control of Europa at a critical point in time," Vitale wrote stockholders.

She identified the dissident stockholders as:

• Jerry McCall-Vitale said this was the same person who last year filed an expensive and time-consuming proxy contest only 18 days after Europa had signed an exclusive agreement giving ITT Hilton the right to look into developing, operating and managing the proposed Casino World project at Diamondhead. (Hilton later let the agreement expire without reaching an accord with Europa).

Vitale said the proxy battle cost the company around $425,000, and caused Europa's stock to drop when it was trading in the $1.50 per share range.

• Brian D'Isernia-Vitale said D'Isernia sold 504,600 shares of stock in the last four months "and was selling stock 72 hours before he filed his proxy contest. This selling activity certainly helps explain why our stock price has not gone up despite active buying by the public," Vitale wrote stockholders.

D'Isernia was a director of Europa from Sept. 2, 1997 through January 21, 1998.

"Now, he's complaining about the performance of the company during the very time he was a director," wrote Vitale.

• Jan R. Thurman-Vitale claimed the man is a lawyer from Dallas, Texas, and does not own a single share of Europa stock.

• Vance F. Shaw-Vitale said, "This man is a total mystery." She said she doesn't know what he does for a living or if he's had any experience directing gambling related operations.

Vitale said the opposition group is claiming Europa is on the verge of insolvency.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," she said. Vitale said when she took over as President last February, the board of directors made drastic cuts in payroll and other operating costs "which resulted in a dramatic turnaround in the cash position and earnings of the Company."

Vitale said, as of June 22, Europa had over $1 million in cash in operating accounts and debts of approximately $500,000.

"I am unaware of any period of time in which the operating position of this company has ever been stronger," she said.

Bay building official elected state association president

Bill Carrigee Sr., Bay St. Louis building official, was recently elected president of the Building Officials Association of Mississippi.

Elected by his peers to serve a two-year term, Carrigee has been a member of the association since his 1995 appointment as building official and enforcement officer. Carrigee began his service with Bay St. Louis in 1993 as building inspector.

As president, Carrigee will represent the State Building Officials Chapter at all code change conferences, preside at chapter meetings and sit on the State Code Adoption Committee.

He will meet with groups that wish to speak to the Building Officials Association from the various building disciplines.

Working with Ron Walker, Center for Government Technology, Mississippi State University Extension Service, Carrigee will coordinate workshops and seminars to be presented at the semi-annual and annual Building Officials Conference.

Carrigee has over 15 years experience in the construction business and is state-licensed as a general contractor in Mississippi. He holds licenses as master electrician and master

Rodeo princess

Kacey Leigh Edwards, daughter of Daniel and Janine Edwards of Bay St. Louis, represented Hancock County in the 50th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. She has also been selected Miss Hancock Chamber and will assist the chamber with grand openings and other promotions throughout the year.

Red snapper

Workers weigh this red snapper Sunday just shortly before the scales closed at 4 p.m. on the final day of the 50th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Unusual fish

Biologist Jim Franks of the Gulf Coast Research Lab in Ocean Springs, displays a Look Down, one of the more unusual fish landed in the 50th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. The fish is a member of the Jack family and is found in schools near the rigs and wrecks south of the barrier islands. Two rodeo records were set on the final day of the 50th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. They were an 11.8 pound green trout caught by John Seymour of Gulfport and 46.6 pound Jack Crevalle caught by Pat Griffin of New Orleans.

Good gumbo

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre stirs a pot of gumbo during the 14th annual Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Fest last weekend.

Fish Tale:

...Bennett, right, with fishing pole, hooked a large red fish during the annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at the Bay/Waveland Yacht Club on July 4. She was fishing with 7 pound line and caught the fish for almost an hour as a crowd gathered to watch the battle. Realizing that she would probably not be able to land the fish, Congressman Gene Taylor and Weighmaster Chris Legarde, below, grabbed a fish net and waded into the water attempting to corral the fish to the beach. In spite of everyone's best efforts, the fish finally escaped. Her brother Nick reported later that he caught an 11 pound, 27 inch red fish which, just might be the same one.

Fun times

These youngsters enjoyed the rides at the 14th annual Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Fest held over the fourth of July weekend.

Traditional ceremony

The Fourth of July annually marks the celebration of our country's independence. The honoring and raising of the American Flag is a tradition honored in the Bay.

Boiled crabs

Workers prepare plates of boiled crabs, an annual favorite at the 14th annual Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Fest.

Sweet smiles

The sweetest smiles on the Fourth were from those celebrating the holiday's finest offerings, good food - like the fresh fillets from St. Rose or a cool, clear drink of plain water. Despite the heat, the celebrations in the Bay had little for most everyone.

Favre stresses education at youth football clinic

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Bay St. Louis Youth Football League concluded its first youth camp on Wednesday, July 1, with special guest Brett Favre talking to the campers.

Favre touched on many areas of his high school, college, and professional years of football; however, he made the focus of his speech education. Favre stressed the importance of an education to the 104 campers. He made it quite evident to them that if you don't make it as a pro football player then you have to have some other type of job.

Favre was the headline of the clinic but there were some other ties to the NFL present during the three-day clinic. Amos Fowler of the Detroit Lions and Ode Burrell of the Houston Oilers handed down some of their professional knowledge to the seven to 12-year old campers.

Fowler was a center for the Detroit Lions for nine years after starring collegiately at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg. Fowler was named the Lions' offensive MVP in 1981.

Burrell starred for the Mississippi State Bulldogs, earning All-SEC status as a running back, before going on to a five-year career with the Oilers.

Burrell was the focal point of the Oilers' offensive attack during his career and he scored a touchdown the first time he touched the ball as an NFL player going 93 yards on a kick-off return.

Numerous other semi-pro and collegiate players were on hand to help the campers learn the fundamentals of their positions. The coaches from Bay High lent their facilities, time, and tireless effort in the organization of the clinic.

Former Hancock North Central quarterback Brett Favre answers a camper's question about his life as the NFL quarterback of the Green Bay Packers. Favre was on hand to talk to the 7-12 year old campers during the Bay St. Louis Youth Football League's first youth clinic.

The campers learned the fundamentals of blocking, tackling, throwing, running, and footwork from the volunteer instructors.

The campers ended each day with a different competition such as the broad jump, vertical jump, 40-yard dash, and the punt-pass-kick.

Will Shaw, a quarterback, stated the following about his camp experience, "We learned a great deal about throwing the football from the coaches. We learned how to throw to the wide receivers correctly."

In addition to the volunteer coaches and Brett Favre, the league had two corporate sponsors in Coca-Cola and SportsCare of Memorial Hospital of Gulfport.

Coca-Cola provided all the refreshments for everyone during the camp. SportsCare provided any necessary medical attention and gave a talk to the players about how to prevent certain injuries and conditions that might come along with playing football.

Ree Elliott, president of the league, commented, "The clinic was an overwhelming success. We are already planning for next year's clinic in hopes of making it bigger and better than this year."

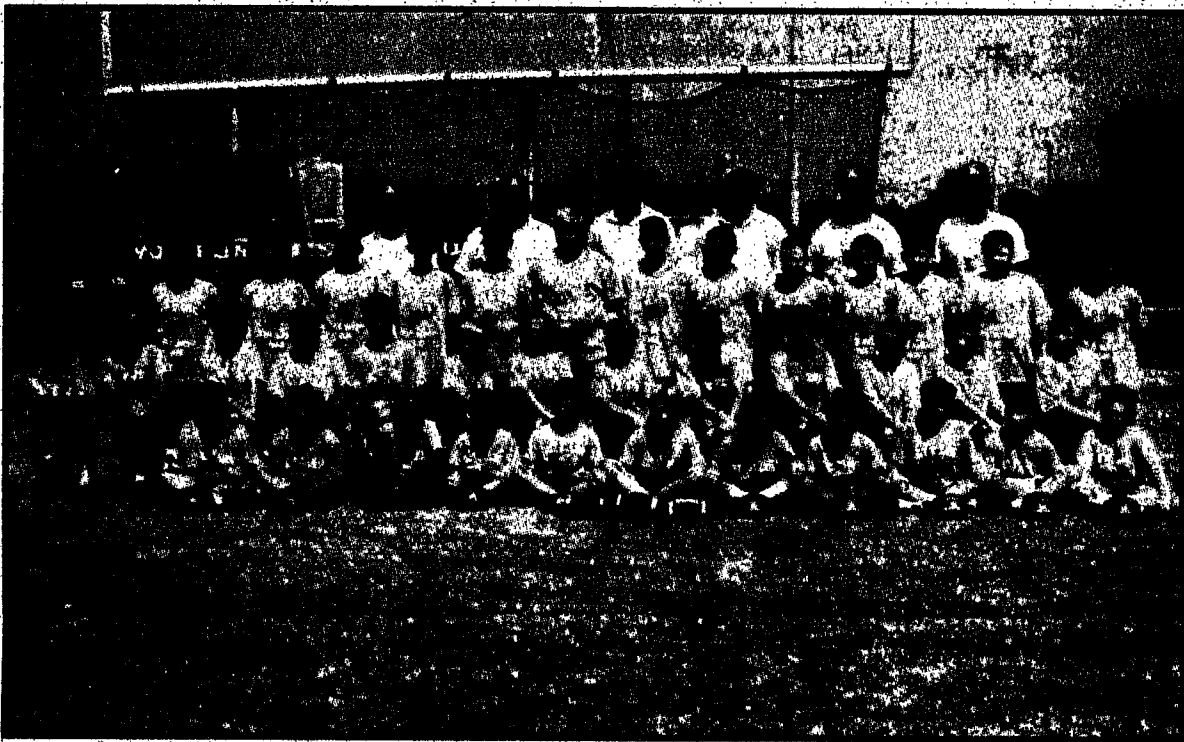

Brett Favre's appearance at the clinic certainly helped attendance but also touched on a much greater note—education.

Even though the clinic is over and life has returned to normal, the campers learned a great deal more about life than just football.

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1998

Double feature night at Sun Coast Speedway

It was an all-feature night at Sun Coast Speedway in Pass Christian Saturday as heat races were dispensed with, making room for an additional round of feature races. The starting lineup for the first round of feature races was determined by qualifying times. The second round starting order was a complete invert of the qualifying order for the original start.

Rodney Barber, fast qualifier in the Street Stock class, held the lead in the early going of the first feature before mechanical problems forced him to the pits. This gave the lead and the win over to Noah Dasipit followed by Bryan Cuevas and Rubba Trotter.

The second feature saw Steve Marsh work his way through traffic to take over the lead followed by Barber and Trotter. With only two laps remaining, Barber once again suffered mechanical problems causing him to drop from the field. Trotter moved into the second spot followed by David Hough and Danny Lee as they chased Marsh to the checkers.

Larry Cifra and Bobby Helmer headed the 18-car field of Pro Stocks for the first feature race in this division. Cifra moved to the lead on the green flag lap with Helmer dropping into the second position as they made their way to the finish line.

Chet Morrison held off several challenges before holding on to a third place finish over Mike Pallou and Mike Ladner. The second feature saw Ladner and Bubba McQueen work their way from fifth row starting position to a first and second place finish.

McQueen challenged Ladner for the lead on several occasions while holding Morrison to his second third place finish. Cifra came in fourth to go with his earlier win.

Donald Parker had a perfect night in the IMCA division as he worked his way through traffic to claim the win in both races. Although both races were plagued with numerous cautions, Parker was able to stay out of trouble winning the first race over Brant Tuillo and Jimmy McMillin and the second over Mel Smith and Mark Chamel.

Rickey Hankin was another driver having a perfect night as he claimed convincing wins in both features. Hankins shared the front row with Keith Miller for the start of the first feature. He moved to the lead as they came out of turn two and was never challenged on his way to the checkers.

Miller had no problem finishing in the second position over K. I. Davis and Wade Glass. Although the second feature was inverted, Hankins had taken over the lead after the completion of two laps on his way to another convincing win. This time it was Miller chasing Davis for the second spot while David Glass finished fourth.

Jamie Moran and Jeremy Eaton each claimed a win and a second in the Rookie division while Joey Pilgrim finished third in both races.

Kosobud re-signs with Sea Wolves

Left Winger John Kosobud will return to the Mississippi Sea Wolves lineup for the 1998-99 season, the hockey team announced.

This will be Kosobud's third year pro as well as his third year on the Sea Wolves lineup.

Scoring 23 goals and 23 assists for a total of 46 points, the Fargo, N.D. native was tied for third in goals scored and for 5th in scoring for the team. He played 69 games during which he took 192 shots on goal and logged 79 penalty minutes. He led the team with five short-hand goals, setting a franchise record.

"In re-signing John Kosobud, we added an element that is getting more and more important every year in hockey, and that is speed," said head coach and director of hockey operations Bruce Boudreau.

"John is one of the fastest skaters and one of the best penalty killers in the league. He proved that last year. If he can improve as much from his second to third year as he did from his first to second year, we'll have a tremendous asset of all-star caliber on our team. I look forward to seeing John in training camp."

Commenting on his return to the Sea Wolves and the Mississippi Gulf Coast, Kosobud said, "I am real excited about coming back, because I love the Coast. This will be my third year there, and I'm coming back because I like it so much. I expect we will have a championship team. I know everyone, including Bruce, wants to not only make the playoffs, but to do well in them. I'm really looking forward to it."

The Sea Wolves open the 1998-99 campaign with six straight games at home, starting with Mobile on Thursday, Oct. 15 at 7:35 p.m. at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

PRCC camp still has openings

The 1998 Pearl River Community College Wildcat Basketball Camp for youths in grades 3-6 is set for July 13-16 in M. R. White Coliseum.

PRCC head men's coach Richard Mathis will direct the day camp staff comprised of Wildcat assistant coach Chris Carter, members of PRCC's 1998 state championship team, and select high school coaches.

The camp will be conducted from 8:30 a.m.-noon daily.

The fee for campers is $60, and the cost covers a camp t-shirt, individual coaching, excess insurance, and a personal evaluation. Individual trophies will be presented to the camp's free-throw, hot shot, one-on-one, three-on-three and five-on-five champions (for each individual age group).

For information or a camp application, call Mathis at (601) 795-1175 or (601) 795-0731 or write: Coach Richard Mathis, Pearl River Community College, 101 Hwy. 11 North, Box 5037, Poplarville, MS 39470.

Saintsations to lead BSL cheerleading camp

The Bay St. Louis Youth Cheerleaders will hold an all-day cheerleading camp Saturday, July 11.

The camp will be open to girls ages 6-12. Participants will be taught cheerleading fundamentals, cheers, chants and dances by the New Orleans Saintsations.

Cost will be $20 per child. Drinks will be provided, but each girl will need to bring her own sack lunch.

For information or to register, call Teresa Giveans at 467-1485 or Amy Richardson at 466-3394.

Developing patience important

For former world bass fishing champion Larry Nixon, one of the major keys to success has been his patience.

"I would say developing patience is certainly one of the most important aspects of bass fishing, especially competitive bass fishing, and I've worked hard to develop mine," says the pro staff angler.

"Bass only feed actively a short time each day. You have to be prepared for all the rest of the time they're not biting and have the patience to keep fishing."

The greatest problem all anglers face is the question of leaving an area when bass aren't biting, and Nixon feels this is where having patience becomes most important.

"You shouldn't leave an area until you're absolutely certain there aren't any fish there," he emphasizes, "because nine times out of ten, the bass aren't biting anywhere else at that time, either. You have to have the patience to fish the area well and stay with it until the bass start biting again."

Nixon feels patience and confidence can both be learned from spending time on the water. He was able to do this as a guide on huge Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Texas/Louisiana border.

"As a guide, you really do have to have patience, or you'll quickly go broke," the pro laughs, "because you have to deal with so many different personalities. Still, the bottom line is catching bass, and you just have to wait until they're ready."

"One thing I learned early in my career as a guide is that there are a lot more bass out there than we'll catch, and if you're in an area that really looks good and has all the ingredients bass should need, then they probably are there. Just because you can't catch them doesn't mean there aren't any fish present."

"You have to be patient with yourself and simply keep trying different lures and techniques until something works. It's a hard lesson to learn, and it is best learned by simply spending time on the water fishing."

Nixon's confidence and patience received a huge boost during the 1977 Bass Masters Classic world championship, in which he placed second as a rookie. He had the winning bass hooked but his line broke and the fish escaped.

"The patience came from having to fish under extremely difficult conditions in which the bass simply were not biting," he recalls. "It was cast after cast after cast without a strike. The confidence came later, realizing I could have and should have won."

"So much of bass fishing is confidence, too," Nixon continues. "As long as you know you're doing the right thing, all you can do is keep fishing."

Library offers home computer access to MAGNOLIA databases

Hancock Countians with home computers and an Internet connection can access the online databases provided by MAGNOLIA, according to Prima Plaque, Hancock County Library System director.

MAGNOLIA, the Mississippi Alliance for Gaining New Opportunities through Library Information Access, was established in August, 1997, when the Mississippi Legislature appropriated more than $568,000 to support the project. It benefits all of the citizens and publicly supported libraries in Mississippi.

Through online access to more than 2,500 full-text journal titles and more than 4,000 indexed and abstracted journal titles, persons can search for articles on many subjects and print or download articles and citations for use in their research.

To access MAGNOLIA's EBSCOHost, open the URL <http://www.epnet.com/ehost/magnolia/login.html>.

Hancock Countians should enter magna 1033 as the requested Location ID.

Current databases available through MAGNOLIA include Academic Search Full Text, Masterfile Full Text, Business Source Elite, and Newspaper Source. Additional sources provided are Health Source Plus, MAS Full Text Plus, Facts on File World News Digest, ERIC, Middle Search Plus and Primary Search.

More information on MAGNOLIA can be obtained by contacting the Bay St. Louis Hancock County Library Information Services Desk at 467-5282.

Carey slates orientation

New transfer orientation and registration for students entering William Carey College will be Tuesday, July 14 on the Hattiesburg campus. Check-in begins at 8 a.m. in the Thomas Fine Arts Lobby.

Orientation '98 is a more technical introduction to college life. Students participate in panel discussions, file for financial aid, schedule classes, and most importantly meet with their advisor.

"Orientation is critical to student retention. It gives the student information about activities and services that they may not learn about otherwise," said Wynde Fitts, Student Support Services counselor.

Opening session begins at 9 a.m., followed by sessions that will offer students and parents information on a variety of topics including financial aid, academics, student life and spiritual life.

Advisement and registration will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium. For information about transfer orientation, contact the Admission Office at 601-582-6208 or 1-800-962-5991, ext. 208.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION OF RURAL DEVELOPMENTS FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

The Rural Development has received an application from the Bi-County Water Association to upgrade their rural water system by construction of a 100,000 gallon elevated water tank, new 200 GPM booster station, upgrading existing 350 GPM well to pump 420 GPM and construct approximately 90 miles of 2" through 6" water mains.

Rural Development has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment.. Therefore, Rural Development will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within fifteen (15) days of this publication to Robert W. Smith, 132 Mayfair Road, Suite C, Hattiesburg, MS 39402. Rural Development will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this fifteen-day period. Request to receive a copy of, or to review the Rural Development environmental assessment upon which the determination is based should be directed to the Rural Development, 132 Mayfair Road, Suite C, Hattiesburg, MS 39402.

Double feature night at Sun Coast Speedway

It was an all-feature night at Sun Coast Speedway in Pass Christian Saturday as heat races were dispensed with, making room for an additional round of feature races. The starting lineup for the first round of feature races was determined by qualifying times. The second round starting order was a complete invert of the qualifying order for the original start.

Rodney Barber, fast qualifier in the Street Stock class, held the lead in the early going of the first feature before mechanical problems forced him to the pits. This gave the lead and the win over to Noah Daspit followed by Bryan Cuevas and Rubba Trotter.

The second feature saw Steve Marsh work his way through traffic to take over the lead followed by Barber and Trotter. With only two laps remaining, Barber once again suffered mechanical problems causing him to drop from the field. Trotter moved into the second spot followed by David Hough and Danny Lee as they chased Marsh to the checkers.

Larry Cifra and Bobby Helmer headed the 18-car field of Pro Stocks for the first feature race in this division. Cifra moved to the lead on the green flag lap with Helmer dropping into the second position as they made their way to the finish line.

Chet Morrison held off several challenges before holding on to a third place finish over Mike Palilou and Mike Ladner. The second feature saw Ladner and Bubba McQueen work their way from fifth row starting position to a first and second place finish.

McQueen challenged Ladner for the lead on several occasions while holding Morrison to his second third place finish. Cifra came in fourth to go with his earlier win.

Donald Parker had a perfect night in the IMCA division as he worked his way through traffic to claim the win in both races. Although both races were plagued with numerous cautions, Parker was able to stay out of trouble winning the first race over Brant Tuillo and Jimmy McMillin and the second over Mel Smith and Mark Chamel.

Rickey Hankin was another driver having a perfect night as he claimed convincing wins in both features. Hankins shared the front row with Keith Miller for the start of the first feature. He moved to the lead as they came out of turn two and was never challenged on his way to the checkers.

Miller had no problem finishing in the second position over K.I. Davis and Wade Glass. Although the second feature was inverted, Hankins had taken over the lead after the completion of two laps on his way to another convincing win. This time it was Miller chasing Davis for the second spot while David Glass finished fourth.

Jamie Moran and Jeremy Eaton each claimed a win and a second in the Rookie division while Joey Pilgrim finished third in both races.

Kosobud re-signs with Sea Wolves

Left Winger John Kosobud will return to the Mississippi Sea Wolves lineup for the 1998-99 season, the hockey team announced.

This will be Kosobud's third year pro as well as his third year on the Sea Wolves lineup.

Scoring 23 goals and 23 assists for a total of 46 points, the Fargo, N.D. native was tied for third in goals scored and for 5th in scoring for the team. He played 69 games during which he took 192 shots on goal and logged 79 penalty minutes. He led the team with five short-hand goals, setting a franchise record.

"In re-signing John Kosobud, we added an element that is getting more and more important every year in hockey, and that is speed," said head coach and director of hockey operations Bruce Boudreau.

"John is one of the fastest skaters and one of the best penalty killers in the league. He proved that last year. If he can improve as much from his second to third year as he did from his first to second year, we'll have a tremendous asset of all-star caliber on our team. I look forward to seeing John in training camp."

Commenting on his return to the Sea Wolves and the Mississippi Gulf Coast, Kosobud said, "I am real excited about coming back, because I love the Coast. This will be my third year there, and I'm coming back because I like it so much. I expect we will have a championship team. I know everyone, including Bruce, wants to not only make the playoffs, but to do well in them. I'm really looking forward to it."

The Sea Wolves open the 1998-99 campaign with six straight games at home, starting with Mobile on Thursday, Oct. 15 at 7:35 p.m. at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

PRCC camp still has openings

The 1998 Pearl River Community College Wildcat Basketball Camp for youths in grades 3-6 is set for July 13-16 in M. R. White Coliseum.

PRCC head men's coach Richard Mathis will direct the day camp staff comprised of Wildcat assistant coach Chris Carter, members of PRCC's 1998 state championship team, and select high school coaches.

The camp will be conducted from 8:30 a.m.-noon daily.

The fee for campers is $60, and the cost covers a camp t-shirt, individual coaching, excess insurance, and a personal evaluation. Individual trophies will be presented to the camp's free-throw, hot shot, one-on-one, three-on-three and five-on-five champions (for each individual age group).

For information or a camp application, call Mathis at (601) 795-1175 or (601) 795-0731 or write: Coach Richard Mathis, Pearl River Community College, 101 Hwy. 11 North, Box 5037, Poplarville, MS 39470.

Saintsations to lead BSL cheerleading camp

The Bay St. Louis Youth Cheerleaders will hold an all-day cheerleading camp Saturday, July 11.

The camp will be open to girls ages 6-12. Participants will be taught cheerleading fundamentals, cheers, chants and dances by the New Orleans Saintsations.

Cost will be $20 per child. Drinks will be provided, but each girl will need to bring her own sack lunch.

For information or to register, call Teresa Giveans at 467-1485 or Amy Richardson at 466-3394.

Developing patience important

For former world bass fishing champion Larry Nixon, one of the major keys to success has been his patience.

"I would say developing patience is certainly one of the most important aspects of bass fishing, especially competitive bass fishing, and I've worked hard to develop mine," says the pro staff angler.

"Bass only feed actively a short time each day. You have to be prepared for all the rest of the time they're not biting and have the patience to keep fishing."

The greatest problem all anglers face is the question of leaving an area when bass aren't biting, and Nixon feels this is where having patience becomes most important.

"You shouldn't leave an area until you're absolutely certain there aren't any fish there," he emphasizes, "because nine times out of ten, the bass aren't biting anywhere else at that time, either. You have to have the patience to fish the area well and stay with it until the bass start biting again."

Nixon feels patience and confidence can both be learned from spending time on the water. He was able to do this as a guide on huge Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Texas/Louisiana border.

"As a guide, you really do have to have patience, or you'll quickly go broke," the pro laughs, "because you have to deal with so many different personalities. Still, the bottom line is catching bass, and you just have to wait until they're ready."

"One thing I learned early in my career as a guide is that there are a lot more bass out there than we'll catch, and if you're in an area that really looks good and has all the ingredients bass should need, then they probably are there. Just because you can't catch them doesn't mean there aren't any fish present."

"You have to be patient with yourself and simply keep trying different lures and techniques until something works. It's a hard lesson to learn, and it is best learned by simply spending time on the water fishing."

Nixon's confidence and patience received a huge boost during the 1977 Bass Masters Classic world championship, in which he placed second as a rookie. He had the winning bass hooked but his line broke and the fish escaped.

"The patience came from having to fish under extremely difficult conditions in which the bass simply were not biting," he recalls. "It was cast after cast after cast without a strike. The confidence came later, realizing I could have and should have won."

"So much of bass fishing is confidence, too," Nixon continues. "As long as you know you're doing the right thing, all you can do is keep fishing."

Library offers home computer access to MAGNOLIA databases

Hancock Countians with home computers and an Internet connection can access the online databases provided by MAGNOLIA, according to Prima Plaque, Hancock County Library System director.

MAGNOLIA, the Mississippi Alliance for Gaining New Opportunities through Library Information Access, was established in August, 1997, when the Mississippi Legislature appropriated more than $568,000 to support the project. It benefits all of the citizens and publicly supported libraries in Mississippi.

Through online access to more than 2,500 full-text journal titles and more than 4,000 indexed and abstracted journal titles, persons can search for articles on many subjects and print or download articles and

citations for use in their research.

To access MAGNOLIA's EBSCOHost, open the URL <http://www.epnet.com/ehost/magnolia/login.html>.

Hancock Countians should enter magna 1033 as the requested Location ID. Current databases available through MAGNOLIA include Academic Search Full Text, Masterfile Full Text, Business Source Elite, and Newspaper Source. Additional sources provided are Health Source Plus, MAS Full Text Plus, Facts on File World News Digest, ERIC, Middle Search Plus and Primary Search.

More information on MAGNOLIA can be obtained by contacting the Bay St. Louis Hancock County Library Information Services Desk at 467-5282.

Carey slates orientation

New transfer orientation and registration for students entering William Carey College will be Tuesday, July 14 on the Hattiesburg campus. Check-in begins at 8 a.m. in the Thomas Fine Arts Lobby.

Orientation '98 is a more technical introduction to college life. Students participate in panel discussions, file for financial aid, schedule classes, and most importantly meet with their advisor.

"Orientation is critical to student retention. It gives the student information about activities and services that they may not learn about otherwise," said Wynde Fitts, Student Support Services counselor.

Opening session begins at 9 a.m., followed by sessions that will offer students and parents information on a variety of topics including financial aid, academics, student life and spiritual life.

Advisement and registration will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium. For information about transfer orientation, contact the Admission Office at 601-582-6208 or 1-800-962-5991, ext. 208.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION OF RURAL DEVELOPMENTS FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

The Rural Development has received an application from the Bi-County Water Association to upgrade their rural water system by construction of a 100,000 gallon elevated water tank, new 200 GPM booster station, upgrading existing 350 GPM well to pump 420 GPM and construct approximately 90 miles of 2" through 6" water mains.

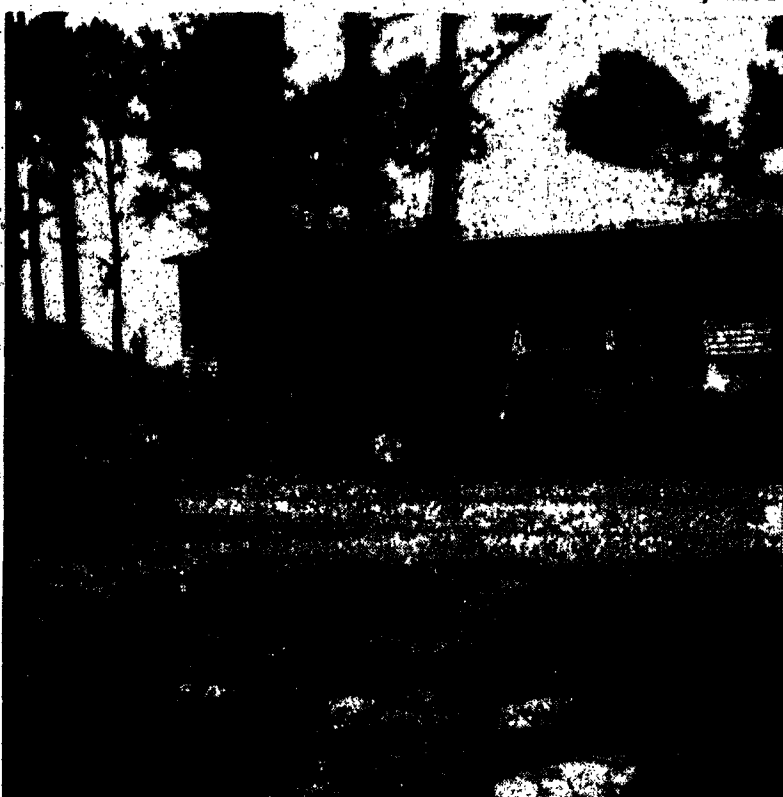

Rural Development has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, Rural Development will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within fifteen (15) days of this publication to Robert W. Smith, 132 Mayfair Road, Suite C, Hattiesburg, MS 39402. Rural Development will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this fifteen-day period. ## Children's cancer support group forms chapter

The MHG Development Foundation Inc. announces the formation of a Candlelighters chapter on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The support group will host a party Thursday, July 11 at noon at the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center.

Candlelighters for Childhood Cancer is a non-profit support group for families of children with cancer. Its purpose is to alleviate the isolation that many families feel at the time their child is diagnosed.

They offer love, caring, encouragement and understanding so that no one will need to face alone the uncertain world of childhood cancer.

Recognizing the various needs of individuals and families, Candlelighters offers support and services to every family, regardless of economics, race, religion, choice of physician(s) or health care facilities.

Candlelighters for Childhood Cancer is affiliated with the Candlelighters Childhood Cancer Foundation, an international network of parent support groups.

For more information about Candlelighters, call Debbie Dahl at 865-3099.

Volunteers needed at center

The Gulf Coast Women's Center for Nonviolence will conduct a crisis line volunteer training Saturday, July 18 and Saturday, July 25.

The Women's Center is in need of crisis line volunteers for Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, George, Pearl River and Stone counties.

Individuals interested may contact Peggy at 1-800-800-1396 or 436-3809.

Survivors group meeting scheduled

The Gulf Coast Women's Center for Nonviolence will offer a group for survivors of homicide victims beginning July 14.

If someone you love has been murdered, you are not alone.

Call Betty at the Gulf Coast Women's Center for Nonviolence at 1-800-800-1396 or 436-3809 for more information.

Cultural center accepting entries in annual exhibit

Entries are now being accepted for the sixth annual Ohr Juried Exhibit at the George E. Ohr Arts and Cultural Center in Biloxi.

Grand prize for the exhibit, which opens Nov. 13 and runs through New Year's, is $1,000, with additional merit awards in a variety of media.

Juror for the exhibit is Patricia Schwarz, accomplished potter and art instructor from Memphis.

The juried exhibit has developed into a major regional art show, with participants annually from throughout the South.

Prospectuses are available from the center, phone 228-374-5547 or see www.georgeohr.org. Entry fee for three slides is $25. All work must be original and completed within the past 12 months.

Pass teacher graduates culinary school

Rebecca Clemens of Pass Christian, who taught first grade at Reeves Elementary School in Long Beach, was among 11 certificate students and five diploma students from the Coast area graduated recently from the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast's Culinary Arts Academy.

The programs teach basic knowledge of production needed in today's food service. Graduates acquire a broad-based professional education necessary to communicate and excel in the world of culinary management.

Certificate students attended the Culinary Arts Academy for one year, and diploma students attended the academy two years.

Survival Weekend scheduled

Survival Weekend '98, hosted by the William Carey College Baptist Student Union (BSU) will take place Aug. 15-17, prior to the beginning of classes on the Hattiesburg campus.

It will offer students an opportunity to make new friends, meet some of the faculty and administration, and receive creative tips on surviving at college.

"Our goal is to get students interested in the BSU and to become involved in the long term," said Tim Glaze, director of the BSU.

Registration for the weekend will begin in the Student Center Aug. 14 at 4:30 p.m. Students can check into dorms between 10:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Friday.

For information about BSU activities, contact Tim Glaze at (601) 682-6161.
